New eco-friendly jars combine beauty with practical

Stak Plast's GP-50 jars consist of a combination of two parts, the jar base and a lightweight removable inner part (the refills). These jars enable the end user to keep all the package components (jar base plus cap) for repeated use and they will only need to replace the inner part when the product is finished.

Their guidelines when designing the 'GP-50' were making a beautiful cosmetic package which is cost-effective and eco-friendly.

Stak Plast also offer decoration on the PET jars by silk screening or pad printing and hot stamping on the caps. It is also possible to customize the color of the jars and caps.

They have succeeded in building a solid reputation by providing worldwide well-known cosmetic companies with a total product solution – from the initial concept and the designing of a packaging, through its decoration and delivery.
