

Altium is a leading producer of standard and lightweight dairy bottles

Every day, millions of people open the fridge to reach for dairy products. And that means there is the potential for millions of people to reach for Altium containers.

At Altium, we understand the dairy industry, and we've put in countless efforts to improve it. This type of commitment has not only elevated dairy brands but it has also earned us the privilege to work with both large corporations as well as smaller regional and family dairies.

Tried-and-true designs. Innovative custom solutions.

Whether it's for milk, yogurt, drinkable yogurt, smoothies, and other dairy and dairy alternative products we offer best in class packaging options with manufacturing processes that are consistent, reliable and efficient.

Half of Altium facilities are well equipped for North America's Dairy Farmer.

Popular options include:
